

Site Policy

This website (<https://www.somec.jp>) is produced and operated in accordance with the following site policies. Please review the details before use. Additionally, this website links to websites operated by our group companies and affiliated companies, but each has different production and operation policies. When using the site, please review the privacy policy and terms of use posted on the site before use.

■About Copyright

All rights, including copyrights to the content published on this website (text, photos, images, information, and all other created or edited content), belong to the ORIX Group and other copyright holders. You may not use, reprint, reproduce, redistribute, or republish these without prior permission from the copyright holder.

■About trademarks

Company names, product and service names, logos, and marks of the ORIX Group listed on this website are registered trademarks or trademarks of the ORIX Group. You may not use, reproduce, reproduce, or modify these without prior permission from the site operator.

■Links to this website

If you wish to link to this website, please contact SOMEK Corporation in advance with the operating entity of the linking site, the purpose of the link, and the URL address of the linking page. Links from sites containing illegal content are strictly prohibited.

■About Cookies and Web Beacons

Some pages of this website use cookies and web beacon mechanisms.

Cookies are mechanisms that identify customers by sending small data files to their computer's hard disk or memory via a web browser.

A web beacon is a small image file or tag embedded in a web page, and by embedding a web beacon on a specific page, you can check whether that page has been visited.

We use these cookies and web beacons to conduct statistical analysis of website usage and measure the effectiveness of advertising and other activities. This is aimed at providing customers with better information and services.

Cookies and web beacons do not transmit your name, address, phone number, or other information to our company. Additionally, customers can disable the cookie function through their browser settings. However, please note that if you disable the cookie function, you may not be able to use some services.

Additionally, our company may outsource these measurement and analysis tasks.

■ About Disclaimers

This website is created based on information considered reliable, but it does not guarantee the accuracy or certainty of the information. If any damage is incurred due to the information posted on this website, the ORIX Group assumes no responsibility for such damages.

Also, the content posted on this website may be changed or discontinued without prior notice.

■ About Security

On this website, all pages feature SSL (Secure Sockets Layer) data encryption, including the dedicated form where you enter your personal information. We also take measures such as installing firewalls to protect information within the site, but due to the nature of internet communication, this does not guarantee complete security. Thank you for your understanding. SSL is a mechanism that protects communication between customers and our servers. To encrypt data exchanged between customers and the servers of the website operator, the likelihood of information sent by customers (such as input content) and information replied from the relevant page (such as input data confirmation screens) is extremely low for third parties on the internet to intercept or alter it.

■ About Access Logs

This website records information about visitors in the form of access logs.

These access logs may be used for statistical analysis of website usage, considerations for improving convenience, and investigations and investigations into system failures or unauthorized access.

Access logs include the domain name and IP address of the visitor, date and time of access, file name accessed, URL of the page linked, the name of the web browser or OS used, but does not link to personal information.

■About the Usage Environment

We recommend using the following operating systems and browsers when browsing this website.

However, depending on the OS, browser, or patch version or combination, viewing may not be possible. Additionally, this website uses cookies, SSL, and JavaScript. If the settings are unavailable, some functions will be restricted. Please use it with [Enable], [Use], [ON], etc.
